

Dr. Robert Fox

Robert was a farm kid who was lucky enough to move to Chilliwack ten years ago. He now practices family medicine at Seabird Island and enjoys long-distance running and reading. He has been a part of the Chilliwack Hospital Foundation Board for one year and enjoys knowing that his involvement can help thousands of Chilliwack residents who rely on the hospital for the emergency department, long and short term stays, surgical procedures, X-rays and more. Dr. Fox acknowledges the government of BC and Fraser Health do an outstanding job of funding the hospital, but there are limitations to their budget. The Chilliwack Hospital Foundation provides the local leadership that fills in the funding gap. Robert applauds Chilliwack residents as, "Nobody cares for the people of Chilliwack more than the people of Chilliwack."
